No special occasion. Just a typical weekend in the neighborhood. The group chat is firing. Bro-ski down in the cul de sac has the cue lit at the self-proclaimed "Chateau Briquette". They've got plenty of meat to go around so bring down a salad or something nice to go with it. The Jones family on the corner is bringing a dessert already. Everybody come over anytime after 3. We all forgot it's a three day weekend so it's time to ramp it up. Open up some bottles of our new favorite Napa Valley Cabernet. Dark and chewy but your teeth cut through it better than that plastic knife on the tri tip. Good thing you bought this one by the case.
