The Ant and the Cicada

One autumn day, the bustling ants were preparing their stores for the winter. They stopped to ask a cicada why he was playing music instead of planning for the season. "Life is to be enjoyed!" the cicada said. But when winter dawned, the ants were warm and well-fed. Seeing the starving cicada, they took pity on him and welcomed him to a feast. Life is about finding a healthy balance between work and play. We consider ourselves to be the ants in this story, always working ahead and planning for any possible difficult seasons ahead.

Winemaking

2023 is potentially the most ideal growing vintage to date for The Fableist Wine Company. We were able to make individual style decisions for each pick knowing we were not going to lose our quintessential freshness. The wine was fermented in tank and aged 100% in barrel. We utilized the majority of American oak, with 12% of that being new.

Tasting Notes

Vibrant cedar, lavender, and fresh bay leaf hit your tongue as you're warmed by the comforts of chocolate mint and cinnamon. A strong finish wraps you in a fond embrace.
